

GOOD-EN

Turf Type Tall Fescue

A wear-tolerant, improved performing, finebladed, dark green tall fescue.

Seeding rate:

- ◆ Parks 8-10 lbs./1000 sq.ft
- ◆ Home Lawns 8-10 lbs./1000 sq.ft
- ◆ Ball Fields 10 lbs./1000 sq.ft
- ◆ Golf course roughs 250-350 lbs./acre.

Area of Adaptation

Good-En performs excellent where tall fescues are adapted. Due to improvements made in the breeding, this newer variety is resistant to leaf spot, brown patch and crown rust diseases. In trials it has shown good performance and persistence and good heat, cold, shade and insect tolerance under a wide range of turf applications. Good-En performs well in the Transition Zone.

Appearance

Good-En is a semi-dwarf turf type. It has been bred from the consumer's viewpoint. It is an advanced generation cultivar which combines a fine bladed leaf width with a dark green genetic color, reduced rate of vertical growth and excellent turf quality.

Seeding

Cover seed to a depth of 1/4" and keep damp until roots have established. After 30 days the seedlings height reaches 3", mow back to 2". Do not allow heavy traffic for 6 weeks.

Maintenance

Good-En has a low nitrogen requirement with 203 lbs. of actual nitrogen per year per 1000 sq.ft. It has shown good quality with a 1 1/2" to 2 1/2" cut.

Trial Performances

Good-En gets high ratings from the NTEP's, Canadian trials and is the #1 rated variety in locations throughout China. Good-En Ranks as the best in the Nation in California, Ohio, Virginia and South Carolina according to NTEP reports. We have placed Good-En in many independent trials with excellent results.
